SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL

The length of the day and the night at any time of the year may be easily ascertained by doubling the time of the sun's setting for the length of the day and doubling the time of its rising for that of the night.

The largest gasoline engine ever made has been installed in a double-ended ferry boat utilized for transportation of troops across an arm of San Francisco Bay. This vessel is two hundred and thirty-six feet long and fifty-eight feet wide, carrying three tracks on the main deck. The engine is set in the centre of the vessel, and is connected through clutches to propellers on either end.

A New Protection for Firemen—A suit of rubber in two thicknesses, designed for firemen, provides water airtight between the layers, and a ring-house around the helmet has perforations through which a continuous shower-bath can be kept upon the outside of the rubber. In one test of the apparatus a fireman, shielded in this way by the rubber suit, stood for ten minutes in a large bonfire without any unpleasant effects from the heat.

A Japanese Process of Welding Copper—An apparatus invented by H. Hamanatsu of Tokyo, Japan, places copper plates polished or cleaned by acid, and then placed on the charcoal bed of a closed vessel or muffle of refractory material, which is inserted in a furnace, the charcoal bed preventing contact of the copper with the vessel, and so ensuring uniform heating, and, at the same time creating a non-oxidizing atmosphere preventing the oxidation of the copper. After heating in this way, the copper pieces are removed and welded by hammering or rolling. Rail bands consisting of a series of superposed plates may be welded at their ends. A welding compound of ammonium carbonate or chloride may be used.

Gauging the Speed of Water—By means of a simple contrivance known as a current meter, engineers are able to measure the flow of a stream at any point at which they can gain access to a place over the water. Bridges are used in the main. To one unfamiliar with the work it might appear that the engineer, with the revolving apparatus at his ear, was trying to talk to the fishes or to a diver. The meter is lowered into the water at several points under the bridge to determine the speed of the current, and by measuring the depths of the water at the same points. From such data the flow of the river is determined, and when such measurements have been made at a number of different heights the flow of the stream at any height can be determined. Then if a record of the height of the river is obtained each day from a river gauge the flow for each day can be computed.

WAS WAITED ON JUST LIKE CHILD

Vancouver Woman Was Down in Bed With Rheumatism When She Began Taking Tanlac.

"When I started taking Tanlac I was so bad off I just had to be waited on like a child, but the medicine has so restored my health that I'm up doing my house work now, and am feeling just fine all over every day," said Mrs. W. W. Watson, of 1521 51st Ave., East Vancouver, B.C.

"Before I got Tanlac I had rheumatic pains all over my body, especially in my back and neck, and suffered more than words can express. I was down in bed just almost helpless, and at every move the pain was almost unbearable. Some days I managed to sit up, but I couldn't even lace my shoes and just had to sit in one position. My appetite was so poor I had no desire to eat, and I had such awful headaches and at times became so dizzy I could hardly see what was going on around me. I never knew what it was to get any kind of rest or sleep, and was suffering so much I was just about ready to give up."

"Well, the way Tanlac has relieved me of my troubles and restored my health is nothing less than remarkable. I have a splendid appetite now and have picked up wonderfully in weight and strength. I never have an ache or pain of any kind and am now looking after my household with perfect ease. Tanlac has certainly been a blessing to me, and I just can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by Galt-Corbett Drug Co. in every town.

Cheaper Electric Light—It is stated that a scientist has patented an invention for the practical production of electric light without the intervention of boiler, engine, or dynamo. Nearly a hundred years ago it was discovered that two metals joined at one end and made hotter than the other by a current of electricity through the metals. But the amount of electricity made by one such combination was always too small for practical use in lighting. The present invention consists of a furnace containing a series of such thermopiles made of heat-resisting metals, and is said to be a somewhat less fuel cost than the best steam engines. The first cost of the plant should be very considerably less.

RETAIL MERCHANTS GROWING OPTIMISTIC

Toronto, December 29.—Retail dealers in a number of lines who were interviewed today regarding the state of the retail trade, expressed satisfaction with the present and optimism as to the outlook. In most cases the belief was advanced that after a month or two the worst would be business back to the "happy and sane swing of pre-war days." Several Toronto street dealers averred that they had noticed an improvement in their business ever since Christmas.

IN FRONT AND REAR

One of the most curious Army badges in the British Army is the one possessed by the Gloucester Regiment—the old Twenty-eighth—which during the campaign in Egypt in 1881 was charged at the same time, while in line, by two bodies of French cavalry, one in the front and one in the rear.

The rear rank immediately faced about, and the regiment stood firm, receiving and repelling both attacks. For this act of courage the corps has ever since enjoyed the privilege of wearing two badges on the breastplate—one in front and one behind.

GENTLE SARCASTIC

Those three famous Americans, William Reid, Joseph Choate, and Mark Twain, were once luncheon together in New York. When the waiter was about to pour out some wine for Choate, that gentleman stopped him.

"What, no wine, Choate?" asked Mark Twain.

"No," was the reply, "I am sorry to say, and I have never yet drunk a glass of wine, smoked tobacco, or gambled."

"Dear me!" exclaimed Mark Twain. "I wish I could say that!"

"Why don't you, Mark?" said Whitelaw Reid. "Choate did!"

BRITAIN INTENDS BUILDING UP DYE INDUSTRY AT HOME

Importation of Dyestuffs is Prohibited by Present Act for Ten Years.

Washington, D.C., December 23.—The passing of the Dyestuff Import Regulations Act, Great Britain has definitely accepted the theory that poison gas will be the supreme weapon of the next war, and at the same time has opened the way for the entry of German dyes into the United States, according to views expressed tonight by chemical experts of the government.

The British act prohibits the importation of dyestuffs into Great Britain for ten years, which, government experts declare, will enable Britain to build up her industry to a point of complete independence from the outside world.

Poison gas and dyestuffs both come from coal tar, it was explained, and from the manufacture of the commercial article to the production of the military weapon is but another step in a continuous process. By insuring the development of the dye industry, chemical experts here said, Great Britain would be enabled to produce possible widespread use of gas in warfare, as chemical factories can turn from the manufacture of dyestuffs to the production of poison gas practically at will.

Direct competition in this country between German and United States made dyes, also is seen by officials here as a result of the British Dyestuff Act.

Western Canada's Corn Substitute

Anybody who has travelled through Western Canada this summer cannot have failed to notice fields of sunflowers growing tall and strong on many of the farms. The newest product will never become the greatest. But it may be probably win add much to the wealth of Saskatchewan. Side by side with the golden wheat the golden sunflower will blossom on every farm, in days to come. Side by side with the grainy pig silos will loom up on every farm, and the ensilage they will hold will be sunflowers, stalks, leaves and all, cropped up fine.

Take a plug of chewing tobacco, steam it until the leaves come loose—and you will, by looking at the tobacco, be able to form an accurate idea of what sunflowers for ensilage looks like. Moreover, it smells like that too. But the cattle, figuratively and literally, eat it up. Cattle coming into the barnyard, fresh from eating luscious green grass, will make a bee-line to the run in sunflower ensilage. They will eat it in preference to the most expensive prepared winter foods—bran and all that sort of thing—and give more milk, with a higher butter-fat content, on sunflower ensilage.

Mr. E. C. Thomas, of Lloydminster, cow testing supervisor for Saskatchewan for the Dairy and Cold Storage branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, writes: The growing of sunflowers for ensilage has been adopted by a great number of Saskatchewan farmers during the past summer. There has been an abundant yield and the number of silos in the province has doubled since a year ago. At Lloydminster, Aqueduct, Guernsey, North Battleford, and many other points they are in use. At Moots there are two or more pit silos. In Rosthern district they are common among the dairymen supplying milk in Saskatchewan city.

The feed produced is used with great success for the winter feeding of both dairy beef and cattle. A writer in the Saskatchewan Star has collected the following interesting data in the course of investigations in the province.

"Russian Mammoth was the seed generally used. It should be sown in rows thirty inches apart, as early as May as possible. Owing to the late spring this year, sowing was delayed in most cases until the end of May, but by harvest time many fields were to be seen yellow with sunflowers standing ten to twelve feet high."

"The yield of sunflowers on the ten or twelve farms visited varied from six to twenty per acre."

"Experience indicates that for the purpose of harvesting the sunflower crop, it advantages to have the patch sown compact, that is as nearly square as possible. Much

DRUG STORES WILL SELL NO MORE LIQUOR

This is Most Important Change in Liquor Act Which Will Come Before Next Session of Legislature.

Edmonton, December 29.—The dispensing of liquor will be taken out of the hands of the druggists at the session of the Alberta legislature. Plans which are being considered by the government go through the house. This will not compromise all the changes in the liquor legislation, but it will be the most important.

The liquor will still be dispensed on prescriptions by the medical men, but these prescriptions must be presented at the government's vendor stores. The liquor business will be entirely divorced from the drug stores.

That you make necessary an increase in the number of vendors' stores, but the government has not decided yet how many stores there will be or where they will be located.

For some time the druggists have complained of the demoralization of the drug business due to the liquor trade being forced upon it. Resolutions have been passed at annual meetings asking the government to remove the liquor business from the drug stores.

Whether or not there is to be a tightening up of the number of prescriptions which a doctor may issue each month has not been determined, but there is likely to be some change, although not to any serious extent.

The question of increasing the punishment of the bootlegger is another question which is under consideration and it would not be surprising if the government would very greatly increase the fine.

Although these changes do not mean a bone dry province in the generally accepted term, yet the changes will be in the direction of bone dry legislation.

A Matter of Taste—

"Don't you wish you was a bird, Jimmy, and could fly way up in the sky?" mused Little Jean dreamily.

"Naw!" scorned Jimmy. "I'd rather be a elephant and squirt water through my nose."

Murdering Wagner—

"Excuse me," said the detective, as he presented himself at the door of the music academy, on Christmas eve, "but I hope you'll give me what information you have, and not make any fuss."

"What do you mean?" was the indignant inquiry.

"Why, that little affair, you know," "I don't understand."

"Why, you see, we got a up from the house next door that somebody was murdering Wagner and the chief sent me down here to work on the case."

proportion of two loads of sunflower to one load of straw, the straw will absorb the sap. If the mixture is kept until winter it will make almost as good feed as the original sunflowers.

in starting to feed the ensilage, care should be taken to start with a small quantity without any bran, as the ensilage is relaxing and for a few days will have a souring effect. This will soon disappear and the cows will take from twenty-five to thirty pounds a day.

"A few figures may be quoted as the value of the crop as a feed: During the last few months of 1919 a practical farmer fed fourteen cows a mixture of ½ sunflower and green oat ensilage, twenty-five pounds per day. Late in February 1920, the ensilage gave out. He then fed a mixture of two parts commercial oatmeal, one part gluten meal, and one part bran, fifteen pounds per day per cow. The change lost him one hundred and twenty pounds of milk for each $5.10 per day. In addition he was out of pocket in the cost of meal."

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL

The length of the day and the night at any time of the year may be easily ascertained by doubling the time of the sun's setting for the length of the day and doubling the time of its rising for that of the night.

The largest spinning engine ever made has been installed at a double-ended ferry boat utilized for transportation of trucks across an arm of San Francisco Bay. This vessel is two hundred and thirty feet long and fifty feet wide, carrying three trucks on the main deck. The engine is set in the centre of the vessel, and is connected through clutches to propellers on either end.

A New Protection for Firemen—A suit of rubber in two thicknesses, designed for firemen, provides water spaces between the layers, and a ring-house around the helmet has perforations through which a continuous shower-bath can be made to fall upon the outside of the rubber. In one set of the apparatus a fireman, shielded in this way by the water, stood for fifteen minutes in a large bonfire without any unpleasant effects from the heat.

A Japanese Process of Welding Copper—A process invented by H. Hamamatsu, of Tokyo, Japan, produces copper which is polished or cleaned by acid, and then placed on the charcoal bed of a closed vessel or muffle of refractory material, which is inserted in a furnace, the charcoal bed preventing contact of the copper with the vessel, and so ensuring uniform heating, and, of the same time creating a non-oxidizing atmosphere preventing the oxidation of the copper. After heating in this way, the copper pieces are removed, and welded by hammering or rolling. Roll bands consisting of a series of superposed plates may be welded at their ends. A welding compound of ammonium carbonate or chloride may be used.

Gauging the Speed of Water.—By means of a simple contrivance known as a current meter, engineers are able to measure the flow of a stream at any point at which they can gain access to a place over the water. Bridges are used in the main. To an unfamiliar with the work it might appear that the engineer, with the receiving apparatus at his ear, was trying to talk to the fishes or to a diver. The meter is lowered into the water at several points under the bridge to determine the speed of the current, and by measuring the depths of the water at the same points. From such information the flow of the river at that particular time and height can be computed, and when such measurements have been made at a number of different heights the flow of the stream at any height can be determined. Then if a record of the height of the river is obtained each day from a river gauge the flow for each day can be computed.

WAS WAITED ON JUST LIKE CHILD

Vancouver Woman Was Down in Bed With Rheumatism When She Began Taking Tanlac.

"When I started taking Tanlac I was so bad off I just had to be waited on like a child, but the medicine has so restored my health that I'm up doing my house work now, and am feeling just fine at every day," said Mrs. W. Wager, of 1821 51st Ave., East Vancouver, B.C.

"Before I got Tanlac I had rheumatic pains all over my body, especially in my back and neck, and suffered more than words can express. I was down in bed just almost helpless, and at every move the pain was almost unbearable. Some days I managed to sit up, but I couldn't even lace my shoes and just had to sit in one position. My appetite was so poor I had no desire to eat, and I had such awful headaches and at times became so dizzy I could hardly see what was going on around me. I never knew what it was to get a good night's sleep, and was suffering so much I was just about ready to give up.

"Well, the way Tanlac has relieved me of my troubles and restored my health is nothing less than remarkable. I have a splendid appetite now and have picked up wonderfully in weight and strength. I never have an ache or pain of any kind and am now looking after my household with perfect ease. Tanlac has certainly been a blessing to me, and I just can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by Geo. Cornett Drug & Book Co., and by the leading druggist in every town.

Cheaper Electric Light.—It is stated that a scientist has patented an invention for the practical production of electric light without the intervention of boiler, engine, or dynamo. Nearly a hundred years ago it was discovered that two metals joined at one end and made hotter than the junction at the other end would generate a current of electricity through the metals. But the amount of electricity was always too small for practical use in lighting. The present invention consists of a furnace containing a series of such thermopiles made of heat-resisting metals, and is said to deliver a practical lighting current at a cost less than the best steam-engines. The first cost of the plant should be very considerably less.

RETAIL MERCHANTS GROWING OPTIMISTIC

Toronto, December 25.—Retail dealers in a number of lines who were interviewed today regarding the state of the retail trade expressed satisfaction with the present and optimism as to the outlook. In most cases the belief was advanced that a few months of the most wondrous business back to the "happy and sane swing of pre-war days." Several foreign street dealers averred that they had noticed an improvement in their business even since Christmas.

GENTLE SARCASTIC

Those three famous Americans, Whitelaw Reid, Joseph Choate, and Mark Twain, were once lunching together in New York. When the waiter was about to pour out some wine for Choate, that gentleman stopped him.

"What no wine, Choate?" asked Mark Twain.

"No," was the reply, "I am sixty to-day, and I have never yet drunk a glass of wine, smoked tobacco, or gambled."

"Dear me!" exclaimed Mark Twain. "I wish I could say that!"

"Why don't you, Mark?" said Whitelaw Reid. "Choate did!"

BRITAIN INTENDS BUILDING UP DYE INDUSTRY AT HOME

Importation of Dyestuffs is Prohibited by Present Act for Ten Years.

Washington, D.C., December 29.—By the passage of the Dyestuffs Import Regulations Act, Great Britain has definitely accepted the policy that poison gas will be the supreme weapon of the next war and at the same time has given the way for the entry of German dyes into the United States, according to views expressed tonight by chemical experts of the government.

The British act prohibits the importation of dyestuffs into Great Britain for ten years, which, government experts declared, will enable Britain to build up her industry to a point of complete independence from the outside world.

Poison gas and dyestuffs both come from coal tar, it was explained, and from the manufacture of the commercial articles to the production of the military weapon is but another step in a continuous process. By insuring the development of the dye industry, chemical experts here said, Great Britain has laid the ground work for possible widespread use of gas in warfare, as chemical factories can turn from the manufacture of dyestuffs to the production of poison gas practically at will.

Direct competition in this country between Germany and United States made dyes, also is seen by officials here as a result of the British Dyestuffs Act.

Western Canada's Corn Substitute

Anybody who has travelled through Western Canada this summer cannot have failed to notice the fields of sunflowers growing tall and strong on many of the farms. The new product will never become the greatest. But it may and probably will add much to the wealth of Saskatchewan. Side by side with the golden wheat the golden sunflower will blossom on every farm, in days to come. By the side with the granary silos will loom up on every farm, and the ensilage they will hold will be sunflower stalk, leaves and all, chopped up fine.

Take a plug of chewing tobacco, steam it until the leaves come loose—and you will, by looking at the tobacco, be able to form an accurate idea of what sunflower ensilage looks like. Moreover, it smells like that, too. But the cattle, figuratively and literally, eat it up! Cattle coming into the barnyard, fresh from the pasture, will make a bee-line on the run for sunflower ensilage. They will eat it in preference to the most expensive prepared winter foods—bran and all that sort of thing—and give more milk with a higher butter-fat content, on sunflower ensilage.

Mr. E. C. Thomas, of Lloydminster, consulting supervisor for Saskatchewan for the Dairy and Cold Storage branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, writes: "The growing of sunflowers for ensilage has been adopted by a great number of Saskatchewan farmers during the past summer. There has been an abundant yield and the number of silos in the province has doubled since a year ago. At Lloydminster, Assiniboia, and many other points they are in use. At Meota there are two or three silos. At Rosthern district they are common among the dairymen supplying milk in Saskatoon city."

"The feed produced is used with great success for the winter feeding of both dairy and beef cattle. A writer in the Saskatchewan Star has collected the following interesting facts in the course of investigation in the province.

"Russian Mammoth was the seed generally used. It should be sown in rows thirty inches apart, as early in May as possible. Owing to the late spring this year, sowing was delayed in most cases until the end of May, but by harvest time many fields were to be seen yellow with sunflowers standing ten to twelve feet high.

"The yield of sunflowers on the ten cattle farms visited varied from eight to twenty per acre.

"The experience of the farmers for the purpose of harvesting the sunflower crop, it is advantageous to have the plants removed from the field, that is at nearly square as possible. Much time is lost at the ends of the rows if the patch is very much wider than it is long. These details will be unnecessary information to all farmers who have had experience in growing corn, but there are many who have not that experience.

"To harvest the crop many farmers use the ordinary corn binder, while other cut by hand. The ordinary length in which the ensilage was cut varied from 1/2 inch to 3/4 inch. A cutter with a blower attached, twelve to fifteen inch throat, driven by a 15-H.P. engine, will handle the crop as fast as it can be cut.

"Most of the silos were stave, furnished by the supply houses. A few silos had staves above. In one instance, an ordinary two by six home-made silo was used.

"The sunflower feed was rejected by farmers who were raising their first crop this summer. The pressure of weight in the silo will release much of the sap that is in the sunflower stalk, and this may be lost. It is taken immediately from the binder and mixed with wheat straw in the meal."

DRUG STORES WILL SELL NO MORE LIQUOR

This is Most Important Change in Liquor Act Which Will Come Before Next Session of Legislature.

Edmonton, December 29.—The dispensing of liquor will be taken out of the hands of the druggists at the session of the Alberta legislature, if plans which are being considered by the government go through the house. This will not comprise all the changes in the liquor legislation, but it will be the most important.

The liquor will still be dispensed on prescriptions by the medical men, but these prescriptions must be presented at the government vendor stores. The liquor business will be entirely divorced from the drug stores.

That will make necessary an increase in the number of vendors' stores, but the government has not decided yet how many stores there will be or where they will be located. For some time the druggists have complained of the demoralization of the drug business due to the liquor trade being forced upon it. Resolutions have been passed at annual meetings asking the government to remove the liquor business from the drug stores.

Whether or not there is to be a tightening up of the number of prescriptions which a doctor may issue each month has not been determined, but there is likely to be some change, although not to any serious extent.

The question of increasing the punishment of the bootlegger is another question which is under consideration and it would not be surprising if the government would very greatly increase the fine.

Although these changes do not mean a bone dry province in the generally accepted term, yet the changes will be in the direction of bone dry legislation.

A Matter of Taste—

"Don't you wish you was a bird, Jimmy, and could fly way up in the sky?" mused little Jess dramatically.

"Naw!" scorned Jimmy. "I'd rather be a elephant and squirt water through my nose."

Murdering Wagner—

"Excuse me," said the detective, as he presented himself at the door of the music academy, on Christmas eve, "but I hope you'll give me what information you have, and not make any fuss."

"What do you mean?" was the indignant inquiry.

"Why, that little affair, you know," "I don't understand."

"Why, you see, we got a tip from the house next door that somebody was murdering Wagner and the chief sent me down here to work on the case."

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5th, 1921

THE NEW YEAR

Well, we are off to a good start on another year. Old 1920, with all its joys and sorrows, its kindly actions and regrets, has passed away, never to return. 1921, in like manner, will pass away, never to return, but it is with us, and our opportunity is now. The present moment will never return in our lives. As we journey towards "the undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveller returns," may the Great Ruler of the universe so guide our footsteps that we leave no regrets behind us. Let us as citizens of Red Deer determine to make our city the abiding place of a contented and happy people. Let us say in our hearts we will do all in our power to advance the interests of our city. Let us help those who help us. Let us back up our merchants and business men who pay big taxes, and help every good work in the community by buying at their stores instead of sending our money to enrich outside dealers. Let us smile, play, stick, fight, win, and we will experience an era of prosperity never dreamed of in the past. Now, then, all together for Red Deer, the best little city in the west.

FROZEN FISH JUST AS PALATABLE, BUT CHEAPER THAN FRESH.

The value of frozen fish as food is not generally appreciated by the people of Canada. Experiments have recently been conducted by Dr. Clark, investigator in the United States Bureau of Chemistry, which prove that the food constituents under no change in freezing, and the food value of fish is the same a year after it is frozen, as when it is fresh. Care should be taken, however, in thawing out. If the fish is thawed out in hot water it loses some of its value, and also its flavour. The fish should be allowed to thaw out gradually by placing it in a cool liquid.

The frozen fish industry is becoming very valuable to the country, as it provides a means of conserving fish which would otherwise go to waste, fish being caught greatly in excess of the demand at certain seasons of the year. It is a method of present known of preserving fresh or mildly cured fish in transit to remote markets, and one which utilizes some other method of shipping fish is discovered the Canadian people inland must depend on the supply of frozen fish. They must be brought to realize that fish preserved in this way is as valuable as fresh, and just as palatable as fish used fresh. The one important distinction is that frozen fish can be supplied much more cheaply.

WAGES AND PRICES IN THE PAPER-MAKING INDUSTRY

Pacts are pretty good things to go by in the paper-making industry just now, a writer in an Eastern paper says.

When was in two of the great paper-making centres of Canada last summer—in the hinterland of Ontario and at two paper mills on the Pacific Coast—I was told by workmen in these mills they hoped I would "give Capital Hill"—evidently a capital H—for increasing their capital charges, extortionate prices to American buyers and then paying fair dividends. The pious hope was expressed by a worker, whose age was not twenty-nine, who worked an eight-hour day, and whose pay had increased by ten cents an hour in 1914 to 90 cents an hour in 1920. In 1920 his mill was receiving $90 to $110 for his paper, which was resold by American brokers on the American market at $220 to $230 a ton. The work on his eight-hour day pay expressed his pious wish, German industrial workers had petitioned the German Government to be permitted to work twelve hours a day, in order to increase output, and a contingent of German paper was landed in New York, freight prepaid, at 7 cents a pound.

tariff in Canada. We do not believe a government that would do that would be popular with the majority of the people of the Dominion. The increase of the tariff by the Republican party of the United States will strengthen the chances of the Morgan government being returned to power when they appeal to the people.

SCORES OF PROBLEMS TO BE MET

Britain's Outlook for 1921 Is Pictorial in Rather Somber Colors.

London, December 3.—Britain's outlook for 1921 is pictured in rather sombre colors by the politicians, economists, financiers and leaders, who are casting their eyes forward to the New Year. At home, two outstanding problems—unemployment and inflation have baffled the government, while it is also besieged by many results of the war, including the enormous war debt, a campaign against so-called government extravagance.

In the foreign field, looking eastward, there is the perplexing problem of settling the Palestine boundaries, promising some political exchanges of opinion with France; Mesopotamia, with its huge expense and its ill-considered Persian difficulties, which the last agreement has not allayed; India, which is in a greater state of confusion than for years requiring an exceptionally large garrison; Russia, with her trade proposals, which have caused a split in the British cabinet; and the uncertain Greek situation.

CONVULSIVE YEAR CRITICAL ONE. Officials here believe that within the next twelve months important dealings between Great Britain and the United States will be made, most careful handling. Negotiations between the two countries have been almost dormant, but the recent conventions in the United States. There is a desire here to clear up the oil question, which has been the subject of a long series of communications on the question as to the extent to which the United States shall participate in the world petroleum supply, most of which is under British control. It is believed, however, that considerable more negotiation is necessary before an agreement is reached.

BIG HARVEST MEANS GOOD TIMES

That the spring or early summer will see the beginning of another era of industrial activity on this continent is the conviction of the public writer based on the assumed presence of three great essentials, which have been abundant in the past year: abundance of capital, both liquid and fixed; abundance of labor, skilled and unskilled; and abundance of raw material.

The proponent of this comfortable doctrine says growing efficiency of labor and expanding immigration—he is speaking of the United States—ensure the second basic condition, the liquidation of stocks that has been going on for the last few months, the third, the big crop of 1920 the third. We rather think that in final analysis the heavy harvest of 1920 is the best of the big crop of 1920 the third. We rather think that in final analysis the heavy harvest of 1920 is the best of the big crop of 1920 the third.

Under this head, a prominent United States paper says: "From the time of Alexander Hamilton, our first protectionist, until this time of Woodrow Wilson, our latest protectionist, the United States has flourished and under an adequate protective tariff has flourished. That is history. Theory has its function, but no theory can grapple with experience."

We know, we do not speculate, concerning what are the effects of an inadequate one. Experiments of one and of the other kind have been made again and again in the course of the century, and the result has been the same. The experience has been repeated of one and the other sort. In our time the Democratic tariff which Cleveland allowed to become law without his signature depressed the industries of the country, lowered wages and threw men out of work. The Democratic tariff which Wilson approved and which went into effect January 1, 1913, in the seven months before war broke out in Europe accomplished similar results, or was on the way toward doing so. On the other hand, the Republican tariff of 1897 restored prosperity, and even the much-maligned Payne-Aldrich tariff signed by Taft produced good revenue and gave good protection.

Never in the history of the Republic has the party of Thomas Jefferson, under any of its names, been responsible for a tariff that energized industry and distributed prosperity. As the Canadian to Cleveland and Wilson, have seen the same result, and every once in a while the country has given the Democratic a chance to prove its case—always with the same result."

The above is the view of a good many million people in the United States, and when the Republican party takes over the reins of power in the coming season, it is altogether likely that ordinary business before the house will mean a session exceeding in length that of last spring.

RAILWAYS WANT TO CUT STATIONS ON WEST LINES

Ottawa, December 31.—Claiming that the cost of maintaining agency stations has more than doubled, C. P. Ry. Co. secretary of the Railway Association of Canada, has filed an application with the railway commission on behalf of the railway companies operating in western Canada for an order amending general rates No. 14, with reference facilities at flag stations.

Under this order railway companies are subject to the action of the board of railway commissioners are obliged to construct and equip suitable and proper stations and maintain agents at points where the total freight and passenger business of the company for the last fiscal year, or the average earnings for the year, or the last fiscal year have not been less than $15,000, unless $20,000 is for inland traffic.

The Railway Association of Canada asks that the rate on the board of railway commissioners be raised to $25,000 and $40,000. The application is made on the ground that the cost of maintenance of agency stations has more than doubled and that, in western Canada, companies should not be compelled to establish stations and appoint permanent agents at points where the total freight and passenger earnings are less than $25,000.

FOURTH SESSION OF LEGISLATURE OPENS JANUARY 26th.

The fourth session of the fourth Legislative Assembly of the Province of Alberta will be officially opened on Wednesday, January 26th. This was announced by Premier Stewart following a meeting of the provincial executive council Tuesday evening, when the opening date was finally decided upon.

The legislature will therefore enter on its work fully 22 days earlier than last session, which convened February 17, and prorogued April 10. Although no outstanding new legislation is announced to be brought down in the coming session, it is altogether likely that ordinary business before the house will mean a session exceeding in length that of last spring.

YON B-HOLLWEG DEAD; FAMOUS AS CONFESSOR

Late German Leader Originated Famous Phrase "A Scrap of Paper."

Berlin, January 2.—Dr. Theobald von Bethmann-Hollweg, former German Imperial Chancellor, died last night after a brief illness on his estate near Berlin. Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg was the originator of the famous reference to the treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium as a "scrap of paper." The reference was made in a statement before the Reichstag in August, 1914, when he formally advised the German government of what caused the war. He frankly admitted in this same speech that Germany's war was a "scrap of paper." He justified it only on the grounds of military necessity.

"Our troops have occupied Luxembourg and perhaps have also found it necessary to enter Belgium territory," he said on August 4, 1914. "That is contrary to international law. We know, however, that France was ready to invade Belgium. France could not; we could not, as France could invade the Luxembourg, which would prove fatal."

"So we were forced to disregard the neutrality of Luxembourg and Belgium governments. We shall try to make good the injustice we have committed as soon as our military goal has been reached."

RETIRED IN 1917. Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg was chancellor of Germany from July 14, 1909, to July 14, 1917. He was succeeded in the office by Dr. Georg Michaelis, an appointee of the former Kaiser. It was said that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg was fired out of office because of his "scrap of paper" statement and his admission that the German invasion of Belgium was unjust.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg received prominent attention throughout the world in 1916 and 1917, while in the two previous years he had frequently declared that England alone was responsible for the war.

HILLSDOWN SCHOOL CHRISTMAS TREE

On Tuesday, December 21st, a great event took place in the Hillsdown school, when the school children went through a programme of choruses, songs, recitations and plays with the greatest credit to themselves, and their teacher, Miss Winifred McLeod. The results of the Christmas tree sale, which was held on the same day, were excellent, and were highly delighted with the performance.

Then followed a short programme by members of the U.F.A. local committee, including recitations by Mrs. Macdonald and C. J. Jarjour, song by Mrs. Freeman, piano solo by Mrs. W. McLeod, and an excellent closing by Mrs. L. O'Connor, and a very pleasing violin solo by Mrs. L. O'Connor.

Santa Claus, in the person of Albert Moschenroos, then made a highly effective entrance to the huge delight of the children, and distributed the good things of the heavily-laden Christmas tree.

CANDOR—George, three years of age, appeared on the Easter program at his Sunday school in Greenwood, singing a solo. As he was leaving the church with his mother a friend said to him: "George, you did fine."

"I know it," he replied. "This mother, reproving him, said: 'Why, George, you should not have said that to the lady.'"

"Whereupon," the mother answered: "Well, mother, I guess I could hear my own voice."

JANUARY ROD AND GUN

"Getting Martha's Goat" is the title of the leading story in Rod and Gun in Canada for January. The author is John Barker, a writer who injects wit and humor into ordinary dry recitals of trips after various big game in the Canadian Rockies. Bayouville Dale tells of the biggest of big game in North America—the moose. The lover of history and adventure is taken up through Northern Ontario to the James Bay by J. B. Bowles, the noted traveller.

The editor of the publication for this interesting issue carries an appeal from the editor for the publication of the who family on the trips to the shooting range. Robert Page Lincoln, M. U. Bates, F. V. Williams and other prominent departmental editors have contributed their usual high class articles. Canada's national sportsman's monthly for January is full of interest to the lover of the out of doors. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

EXAMINER'S REVIEW OF PROVINCIAL MARKETS

Calgary, December 31.

Cattle—Receipts have been light at Calgary yards this week and with a good demand everything has been cleaned up at prices about on a level with last week. Choice steers are quoted $7.00 to $7.50; good butchers, $6.00 to $7.00; medium, $5.00 to $6.00; common, $4.00 to $5.00; choice cows, $5.25 to $5.75; good butchers, $4.50 to $5.25; medium butchers, $4.00 to $4.50; common, $3.50 to $4.00; canners, $2.00 to $3.50. There has been a little better price on calves, with a few up to $4.00, but not many of them. Stockers and feeders scarce, and few sales during the week, feeder steers worth from $6.00 down, and a good demand for stocker calves and few offered.

There is a weak demand is shown for all classes of cattle in Edmonton, and with light receipts the market has kept steady and a little firmer in spots, but as a rule prices are unchanged. Choice steers, $7.00 to $7.75; good butchers, $6.50 to $7.00; medium, $5.25 to $5.75; common, $4.00 to $5.00. Choice cows, $5.50 to $5.75; good butchers, $5.00 to $5.50; medium, $4.50 to $5.00; common, $3.50 to $4.00. Offerings of light veal calves scarce, prices on ewes, which are now quoted $4.50 to $5.00; common, $3.50 to $4.00. Offerings of light veal calves scarce, prices on ewes, which are now quoted $4.50 to $5.00; common, $3.50 to $4.00.

There is a good demand for stocker calves and feeder cattle, and there are standing orders in the hands of many commission firms from farmers to buy at present prices of cattle and they will be money in finishing some beef.

There has been quite a flurry in light during the week, and on Thursday there were sales at $16.75 to $17.00. This morning the prices on light calves were $16.75 to $17.00. Edmonton hog prices have been stronger again this week, and sales during the past few days have reached $15.75.

Sheep—Receipts at Calgary rather light during the week, and lambs are a little lower, sales made at $10.50; westerns probably unchanged, from $8.00 down, and ewes $5.00 to $7.00. Sheep prices at Edmonton fairly steady, with a slight reduction in the prices on ewes, which are now quoted $6.00 to $6.50; yearlings are worth up to $8.50, and lambs from $10.00 down.

Some little interest is being shown in the sales, and though there is little cash doing there are at least looking them over.

Grain—Nobody knows just what to say about the grain market during the holiday season, and a times it is good and at times it is horrid. However, the movement during the past couple of weeks has not been heavy, and there is an absence of any very abnormal news deterring the movement.

Produce—During the present week the movement of all lines of produce has been light, and prices generally holding about as in the past. There is a fair early yet to say just what the swing will be, but with poultry stocks well absorbed, and the market for a steady market. Fowl, 12c to 15c; chickens, 12c to 15c; ducks, 23c to 25c; geese, 20c to 22c; turkeys, 23c to 25c. Butter is unchanged with local consumption taking up some of the surplus. "Washed" butter is being sold at a profit, and is being replaced some now coming in and replacing some of the B.C. fresh laid down at Calgary around $24.00, and very few offered. Potatoes very quiet and little movement from country points; lobbing in Calgary around $4.00, with B.C. at $5.00; these are prices on best quality.

Hay—Dealers say there is very little demand. Buying prices at country points on upland hay, 15c to 16c; timothy, 20c to 22c. There is a lot of poorer quality prairie hay offered around $13.00 to $15.00. Hides—No change in market quotations or conditions.

Pure—Dealers now waiting to see what manufacturers will want to buy and what they will be willing to pay. Prices to trappers unchanged.

A Diligent Novice—Father returned from his first driving lesson boasting of his easy mastery of the new car. To please him, several of his family consented to ride with him and things went well until a car coming up behind them honked its horn. The startled driver jerked his wheel to the right, running down a steep bank, then to the left, heading into a fence, and to the right again, finally bringing up in the road. "Dad, what on earth are you trying to do?" demanded his breathless son. "Why, son," replied the novice calmly, "I was just practicing turning out for teams."

I Have Captured The Entire Community

The Entire District is showing its appreciation. People are saying: "Jack Fulton is the first man in Red Deer to bring down his prices." I attribute the success of this sale to four vital factors:

1. TRUTHFUL ADVERTISING
3. FULTON'S REPUTATION
4. LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES

I am taking my losses now. Realizing a loss on my High-Class Stock inevitable, I decided to get it over with now. I don't wish to pose as a prophet, but it is my firm belief that sale prices to-day, not only in my store, but all over the country are at the lowest point you'll see in years. My advice would be to take full advantage of prevailing low prices this month.

MAPLE LEAF ON UNKNOWN
WARRIOR'S COFFIN

Just as the body of the "Unknown Warrior" was about to be lowered into the grave in Westminster Abbey a single maple leaf, sent from Canada, was placed upon the coffin.

With its unmatchable shading of red and gold, just as it had fallen from the tree, this simple tribute was the first to be laid over the head of the unknown hero before the grave was filled in with earth removed from the original resting place in France.

The last, a particularly beautiful specimen, was gathered by Mr. Adam Brown, the aged Hamilton citizen who recently resigned as postmaster, on the road between Burlington and Wabasso Park. With not the least pretension of the use to which it would be put, Mr. Brown enclosed it in a letter to Miss Alice Home, London, daughter of the late Sir Anthony Home, V.C., of Lucknow fame. This lady has just written of how the leaf became a medium of expression of Canada's sincere homage to that host who, fighting, fell, leaving no trace of his identity.

Who is this unnamed hero that lies where England's dead are buried? Nobody knows. But if he be one of Canada's sons, in his last sleep he is close to the emblem of his native land.

LESLEVILLE

December 27, 1920

The fourteenth annual Christmas tree under the auspices of Bethel Union Church Sunday School was held in Card's hall last Thursday evening. The tree, whose top reached even into the roof of the hall, was heavily laden in every branch with dainty, useful and appropriate gifts—something for every child in the district. The large and representative crowd, under the chairmanship of Mr. John Rieley, settled down to the enjoyment of the following programme:

Chorus—"Hark the Herald Angels Sing"; recitation—Agnes Menzies; recitation—Austin Ames; recitation—Thelma Speers, encore; recitation—Robert Carland; dialogue—Fred and Clifford Awoock; solo—Geraldine Hopper; quartette—Misses Pepper and Carland; recitation—Margaret Menzies; solo—Geraldine Schweb; recitation—Fred Awoock; recitation—May Harty; dialogue—"Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe"; recitation—Lloyd Schweb; recitation—Bob Menzies; recitation—Dorothy Turton.

Mr. Rieley now read a very concise and intelligible report of the various phases and the content of the Sunday School during the past year, and announced that a consignment of fruit and presents had been sent all the way from California by Mrs. Tinkham for use on this occasion. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Tinkham for her generosity, and the contents of the consignment were subsequently distributed and much enjoyed.

The coming of Santa Claus, announced by Mr. Hazen, evoked great evidences of jubilation which swelled into one great prolonged outburst of cheering when Santa himself, fresh from Eskville, burst into the hall. The presents were now taken from the tree and handed to "Santa" who in turn handed them to each child. Fruit, candies, nuts, coffee, cake and sandwiches were afterwards distributed in breaking variety of toys were also thoroughly tested, everyone who heard them agreeing that they perfectly fulfilled the object for which they were intended. After a most enjoyable time of real fraternal sociability, the gathering dispersed, everyone who attended feeling satisfied that the gathering had been a success.

NEW DIRECTORY FOR ALBERTA

Wrigley's Book for 1920 Contains Mass of Useful Information.

The first issue of Wrigley's Alberta Directory is just being delivered.

The 1920 issue comprises 532 pages, the first 74 pages containing an early history of the Province, the personnel of the Alberta Government, together with a list of all officials of the various departments of the Government, both at Edmonton and throughout the Province, with short articles giving the jurisdiction of the various departments, and indicating the great resources of the Province; the names of all Dominion Government officials throughout the Province are also given in this section, and the book contains scenes and views throughout all automobile routes in the Province. The gazetteer portion of the book deals with 1975 separate and distinct cities, towns, villages and settlements in the Province.

GATES OBSCURE PLACES
There are 1975 post offices in the Province, leaving 795 places which have no post office, and in all of these cases the directory gives the name of the nearest post office, or tells how mail should be addressed to reach the residents. Only about one-third of the places in the Province can be located from any other source.

While there are 1975 communities in the Province there are only 85 towns with a population of over 200. 239 towns have a total of 270 towns in which banks are located.

The directory gives the names of all business firms and professional people, together with heads of departments. A classified business directory, giving the names of all business firms, all manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors in the Province is contained in the directory classified under 385 headings, with 104 cross references.

SIZE OF CHIEF TOWNS
The directory census is based on estimates, and the following populations may be accepted as fairly accurate: Calgary, 70,000; Edmonton, 68,000; Lethbridge, 14,000; Medicine Hat, 12,000; Red Deer, 3,000; Wetaskiwin, 2,500.

In addition to a directory of these six cities it includes 23 towns, 108 villages and 178 municipal districts, giving a population of 615,000. The Dominion Government estimate of the population of British Columbia is 708,000.

FRANCE FACES 1921 WITH CONFIDENCE

French People Have Worries, But in Much Better Situation Than They Were Twelve Months Ago.

Paris, December 29.—While the French people have their worries, yet they will begin the new year immensely more confidently than they began 1920, because of extraordinarily good crops, progress in restoring the ruined debris of coal and the increased supply of coal and the prospect of a year of peace.

Two foreign questions are likely to give constant concern to the government throughout the coming year. They are the payment of the reparations and the war with Turkish Nationalists over the Syrian and Sicilian mandates. Then also there are the large general questions of the future of the Versailles peace treaty, the league of nations and the many issues growing from the peace conference in all of which France has a very deep concern in what the coming year may bring.

The German attitude at the Brussels conference, which will be resumed January 10, gives rise to the expectations that an agreement on reparations is possible early in the spring, fixing the total sum and the manner of payment.

THE FRENCH ARMY
France will probably keep her army near its present strength, 840,000, for another year, or until it can be seen whether Germany will pay the installments agreed upon.

She has now about 70,000 troops in Turkey. The advance France has made in reconstruction, her wheat crop which reduced buying abroad by 2,000,000,000 francs, and the continual confidence of French investors, as shown by the unmet unprecedented success of the last loan, are considered as justifying a greater optimism concerning the financial and economical situation than is held at present.

The struggle over the high cost of living receives a large share of public attention. Resistance of merchants and manufacturers to demands for lower prices have resulted in something like a deadlock.

The unemployment situation is causing anxiety. There are 300,000 workers idle now in France.

ALHAMBRA

December 27, 1929.

A Christmas tree and entertainment was held in the schoolhouse on Thursday evening last. A splendid programme was submitted by the pupils and great credit is due to Miss Thackeray for the able and proficient way in which they performed their parts. The entertainment was much appreciated by a crowded house. Programme:—Carol—"White Shepherds Watched"; Merry Xmas; Ten Little Nigger boys; recitation by Robert Larson; dialogue—"A slight mistake"; song—"The Christmas Wishes"; recitation by Margaret Loyckassell; recitation by Will Smith; dialogue—"How They Knew a Secret"; Carol—"Once in Royal David's City"; recitation by Will Bradshaw; recitation—"Waiting for Santa Claus"; song by Harold Jones. After the programme, Santa Claus made his appearance and much jingling of bells to the delight of the children. The tree was then lit up and Santa presented each child with something from his bounteous store. At the conclusion, a vote of thanks was accorded Miss Thackeray on the motion of the chairman, Mr. Frank Patterson. The grown-ups finished an enjoyable evening with a dance, Messrs. Rutherford and Burtwick supplying the music.

Alhambra is now linked up with outside points on the telephone. This will be much to the advantage of our business men.

Mr. G. Byram went into Red Deer to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davidson.

The whist drive held here on the 17th was a great success. Ladies prize, a box of apples—Mrs. W. A. Wallace; gent's prize, a goose—Mr. Lessing; booby prize, ladies—Miss Phillips; gent's—Mr. Fred Turkel; there was also a drawing for a goose the same evening. Mr. Loyckassell being the winner. The proceeds from this raised $22, to be used in purchasing cups and plates to be the property of the U.P.A.

THROAT SORE?

Don't neglect it because you think it is "only a sore throat!" It is often the beginning of serious trouble, which can be avoided if proper precautions are taken. Peps will safeguard you.

"Sore throat" is a sign that your power of resistance has been temporarily lowered, and your system is therefore unable to withstand the attacks of harmful germs which are being constantly breathed in. The germs have, therefore, settled in your throat and caused inflammation, and to prevent more serious trouble these germs must be destroyed.

A Peps pastille dissolved on the tongue throws off Pine vapor, which is as certain a germ-destroyer as the Pine laden air of the Swiss Mountains, which doctors so highly recommend. These Pine fumes are breathed down into the air passages and lungs, membranes that medicine swallowed into the stomach could not possibly reach.

Nothing can equal this breathable remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, etc. All dealers or Peps Co., Toronto. Six boxes, 5 for $12.50.

SALVATION ARMY CHRISTMAS TREE

The Salvation Army Sunday School Christmas entertainment on Tuesday evening was one of the most successful ever put on at the barracks, the hall and alleys being packed to the doors, and the programme being heartily enjoyed and applauded by all. Chief Anderson made an encouraging and capable chairman, while Taylor as Santa Claus acted the part of the beautiful gift-giver to perfection. The juniors were all remembered with candies, etc. The platform and windows were nicely decorated, and a fine upstanding Christmas tree, with its colored streamers held the place of honor. The officers and the corps, as well as the boys and girls themselves, are to be heartily congratulated on the success of the annual event. The programme was:—

Very ill—Lord Halsbury's ninety-seventh birthday reminds me that he is still sturdy and can walk into the House of Lords without any assistance other than a stick. To himself, however, his health is not very marvellous. A friend who met him one day congratulated him on the wonderful way in which he was preserving his strength and on never being ill. "I don't know so much about it," said Lord Halsbury, shaking his head sadly. "I had a bad attack of hiccupping last week."

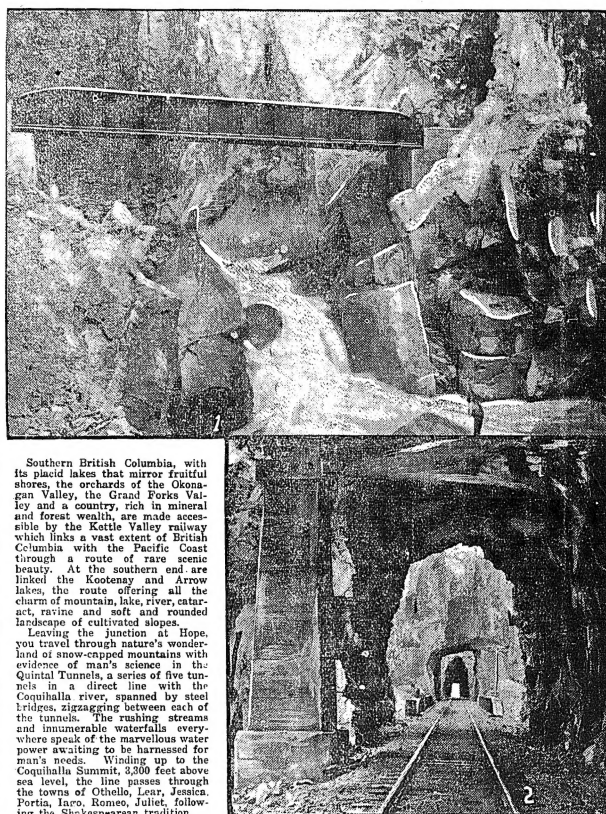

SUFFERED DAY AND NIGHT

The Tortures of Dyspepsia Relieved By "Fruit-a-lives"

LARRY BRAS D'OR, C. B. "I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, belching gas, constant headaches and did not sleep well at night. Finally, a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-lives'. In a week, the Constipation was corrected and soon I was free of pain, headaches and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyspepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous." ROBERT NEWTON.

The new baby had proved itself the possessor of extraordinary lung power. One day baby's brother, little Johnny, said to his mother: "Mrs. baby came from heaven, didn't he?" "Yes, dear," answered the mother. Johnny was silent for a minute and then he went on: "I say, ma!" "What is it, Johnny?" "I don't blame the angels for slinging him out, do you?"

Through the Kettle Valley.

Southern British Columbia, with its placid lakes that mirror fruitful shores, the orchards of the Okanagan Valley, the Grand Forks Valley and a country, rich in mineral and forest wealth, are made accessible by the Kettle Valley railway which links a vast extent of British Columbia with the Pacific Coast through a route of rare scenic beauty. At the southern end are linked the Kootenay and Arrow lakes, the route offering all the charm of mountain, lake, river, cataraict, ravine and soft and rounded landscape of cultivated slopes. Leaving the junction at Hope, you travel through nature's wonderland of snow-capped mountains with evidence of man's science in the Quintal Tunnel, a series of five tunnels in a direct line with the Coughallia river, spanned by steel bridges, zigzagging between each of the tunnels. The rushing streams and innumerable waterfalls everywhere speak of the marvellous power awaiting to be harnessed for man's needs. Winding up to the Coughallia Summit, 5,300 feet above sea level, the line passes through the towns of Othello, Lear, Jessica, Portia, Iago, Romeo, Juliet, following the Shakespearean tradition. Between the next spot of interest was the famous mining town of twenty years ago. It is located at the junction of two mountain streams, Similkameen, of the medieval "Flow'r Water" and Tulameen (Red Water). The Indian nomenclature, in all its euphony, has been retained, and native legends abound. The late Pauline Johnson, Indian poetess in her "Indian Legends" tells of "Red Water," Tulameen, said to be haunted by the spirit of an Indian man who gave her life for her lover. Colmont Collieries are passed where a tunnel three-quarters of a mile into one seam, gives an almost inexhaustible supply of high grade coal. There are at least ten million tons of coal "bleeked out" and ready for mine and shipment. The town of Furs is another interesting point, as the home of the famous old "Bill Miner," notorious train robber who, as Bill Edwards, was known as a kindly citizen who studied his Bible. He was sent to British Columbia penitentiary in 1903, for twenty years, for holding up a train, and escaped in 1905. He was again heard of as a prisoner in Atlanta, Georgia, where he died in the State penitentiary. Skirting the orchard covered benches, the valley is unfolded where nestle the towns of Pentiction at the foot of Okanagan Lake. Viewed from the hills, golden in the sunshine, it seemed the desired resort, shine, it is a resort desirable in summer and has proved as attractive in winter.

EDITORIAL

We are not overstocked with merchandise purchased under unfavorable market conditions. Our prices have never gone to the peak, and we are in the strongest position to offer January specials from a stock in the pink of condition.

Quality is conspicuous in every line, while style and price are not lost sight of, making our values paramount.

In this January Clearance Sale we are making what appears to be unwarranted reductions in Dry Goods and Clothing without very much consideration for cost of replacement, because we believe you need this merchandise now, and you expect it on about the same basis as you are receiving for your own labor and products.

Our impression is that prices in general are not going as low as has been expected, and we advise our customers to take advantage of our January prices, being fully convinced that it will be to their decided advantage; although our disposition is to keep prices down to the lowest possible and consistent level all the time, and this year will find us keener than ever in our determination in every individual sale to emphasize the fact that "It Pays to Pay Cash" at Lord's.

Constantinople, January 4.—News from Armenia continues confused. The territory of the Armenian Soviet Republic is in the hands of important military movements of Russian troops. The country appears to be in a state of complete anarchy; the bulk of the Armenian army has taken to the hills and many towns and villages are being looted.

The Georgian foreign minister has appealed to Soviet Russia and the civilized world for protection against Bolshevik infiltration of treaties whereby supplies of oil have been withheld from trains sent to Baku and seized by Bolshevik forces on the frontier and the garrison of military works within the neutral zone. Bolshevik Cossacks have penetrated Georgian territory, disarmed the populations and looted villages.

General Karafiol, the Georgian representative at Erivan, and staff, it is stated, have been held up by the Soviet Armenian government.

MAYOR CHURCH IS AGAIN ELECTED

Toronto, January 3.—Thomas Langton Church was elected mayor of Toronto for the seventh consecutive time in the municipal elections on New Year's Day, when he defeated former Councillor Samuel J. McBride, by a majority of 16,002. This was Mayor Church's greatest triumph in his record-breaking length of service in the mayoralty, his majority being 3,828 greater than the 1920 election.

The vote stood: Church, 35,968; McBride, 19,966. The re-election of Mayor Church was no surprise.

The big electric deal put through a short time ago by Sir Adam Beck on behalf of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the city of Toronto, practically made Mayor Church's re-election a certainty, as he was known as an active supporter of the hydro movement from the first.

whereas, Mr. McBride, who claimed to be an ardent supporter of hydro as the mayor, was regarded as a late convert to the movement.

EUROPEAN JEWS ANXIOUS TO GO TO PALESTINE

London, January 4.—"Jews in central Europe are clamoring to go to Palestine; some even walking," said Sir Alfred Mond, the British statesman who shortly is going there on an invitation of Sir Herbert Samuel the high commissioner.

"One of the reasons why I am going is to discover how much of the much heralded potentialities of the country are real and how much false."

"I believe the country can support from three to four million people instead of six hundred thousand there to-day."

"Certain things must be done, however. Communications and harbors must be developed, an irrigation system provided, while the development of electrical power is vital."

"I want to see an end put to the stories of hostility between the Jews and the Arabs. The two peoples are not hostile."
